F-22 Demonstration Team

The Air Combat Command F-22 Demonstration Team at Langley Air Force Base performs precision aerial maneuvers to demonstrate the unique capabilities of the world's only operational fifth-generation fighter aircraft. Team members also exhibit the professional qualities the Air Force develops in the people who fly, maintain and support these aircraft.

MAJOR DAVE "ZEKE" SKALICKY –

F-22 Demo Pilot

Major Dave "Zeke" Skalicky is the United States Air Force F-22 Raptor Aerial Demonstration Team Commander and pilot based at Langley Air Force Base, VA. As the F-22 Aerial Demonstration Commander, he is responsible for representing Air Combat Command, United States Air Force, Department of Defense, and United States of America at more than 30 air shows annually. He leads the 14-member F-22A Demonstration Team, oversees maintenance actions performed on the Lockheed Martin $137M demo aircraft, and showcases the Raptor's exceptional maneuverability for more than 10 million spectators around the world each year. He is an operational F-22A instructor pilot assigned to the 1st Operations Group, Langley AFB, VA. He is 32 years old.

Maj. Skalicky was born in Minneapolis, Minn. on August 5, 1976. He attended Hopkins High School in Hopkins, Minn. graduating in June 1994. After high school Maj. Skalicky attended the University of Minnesota and graduated from the Institute of Technology's Honors Program with a Bachelor's Degree in Aerospace Engineering and Mechanics in 1999.

Upon graduation Maj. Skalicky was assigned to Minot AFB, N.D. as Squadron Executive Officer until he attended Euro-NATO Joint Jet Pilot Training at Sheppard AFB, TX. He graduated as the Distinguished Graduate and AETC Commander's Trophy recipient. Maj. Skalicky then attended Introduction to Fighter Fundamentals training at Moody AFB, Ga. and F-15C Formal Training Unit (FTU) at Tyndall AFB, Fla. graduating first in his class in both courses. Upon graduation, he was then assigned to Elmendorf AFB, AK., for three years as an operational F-15C pilot and Mission Commander. Following that assignment, Maj. Skalicky moved back to Tyndall AFB to serve as an F-15C FTU Instructor Pilot where he taught for just over a year. During that time, he attended Squadron Officer School at Maxwell AFB, Ala. and received Top-Third Graduate and Top-Third Flight honors.

In June 2006, Maj. Skalicky was hand-selected for the F-22A program, rapidly upgraded to an instructor pilot in the F-22A, and joined the instructor cadre in the 43rd Fighter Squadron at Tyndall AFB. While assigned to the 43FS he served as an F-22A Flight Commander and Flight Examiner winning several squadron, group, and wing level awards. In March of 2008 he was selected to be the Air Combat Command F-22 Demonstration Pilot and moved to Langley AFB in September. He is a seasoned fighter pilot with over 1,500 fighter hours in both the F-15C and F-22A. His military awards include the Meritorious Service Medal, Air Force Commendation Medal, Air Force Achievement Medal, Combat Readiness Medal, National Defense Service Medal, and Global War on Terrorism Medal.
